THREE MONTHS OF SUNNY TRANQUILITY ENDED abruptly on September third, when the voices of eight hundred bewildered freshmen shattered the silence. Difficult locks, different buildings, unfamiliar teachers, and new faces, all contributed to the mass air of confusion which blanketed West's campus. With the returning upperclassmen on September fourth came West's first exchange students, Anna Hage from Sweden and Jo Kleinschmidt from Germany.

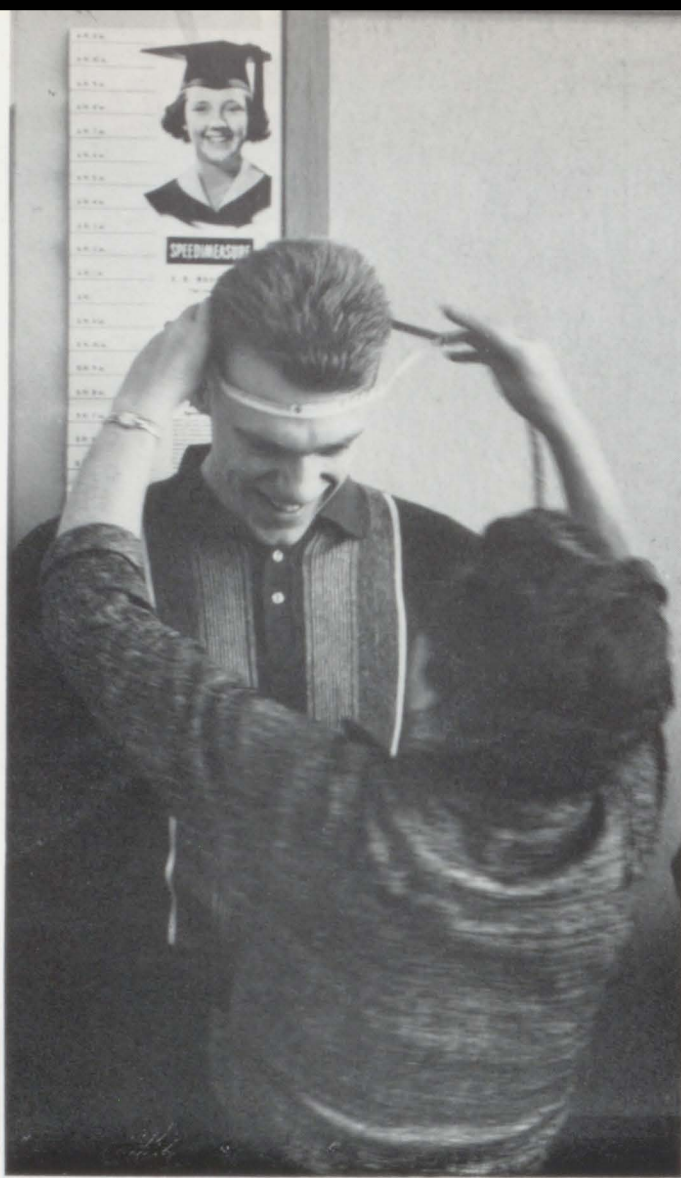

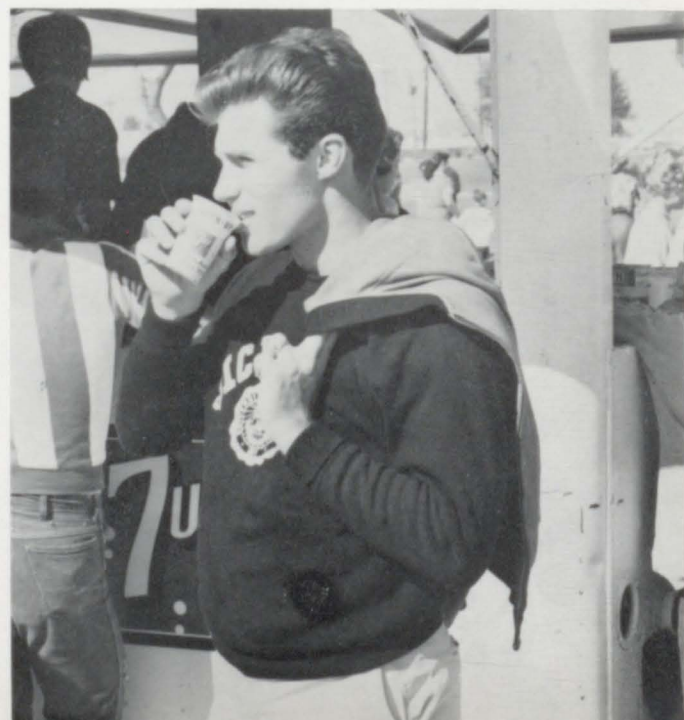

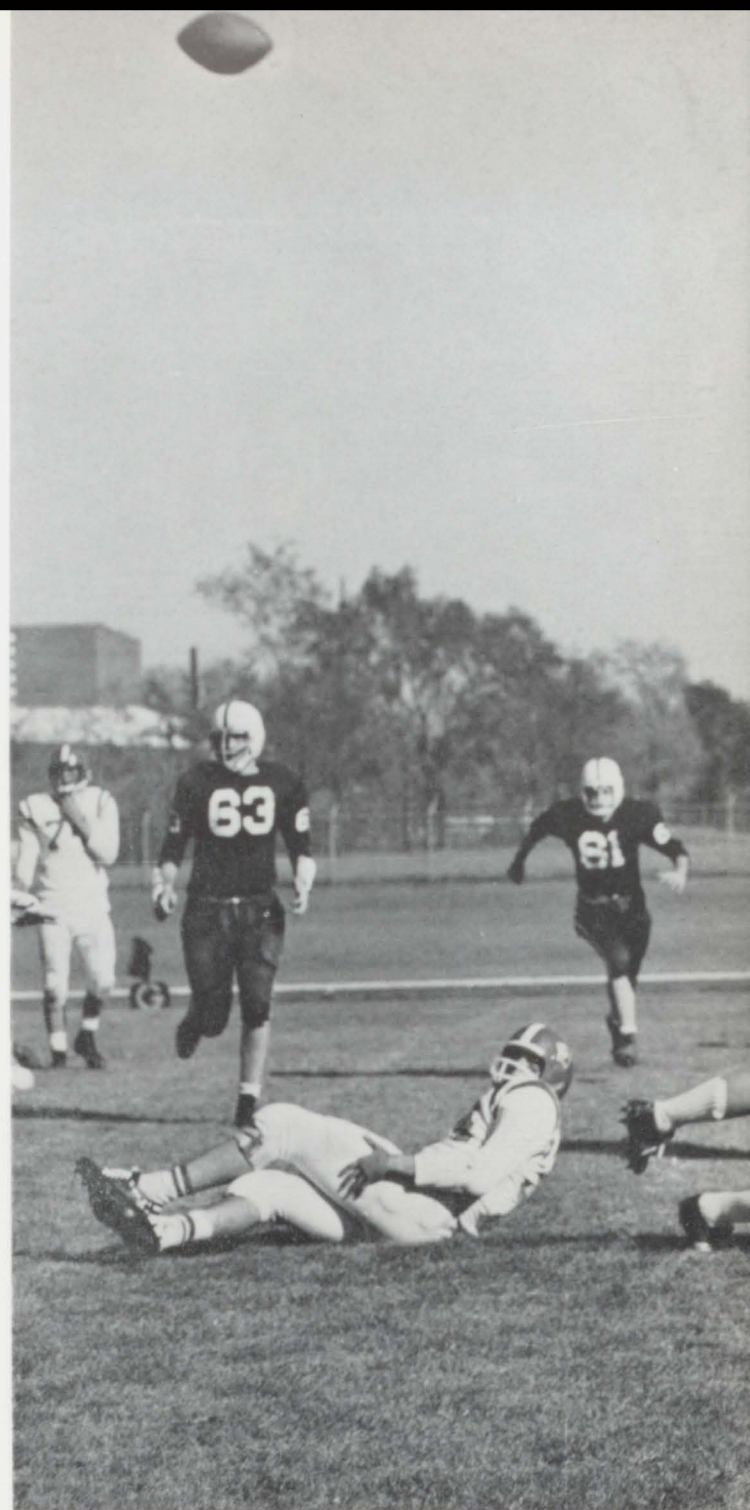

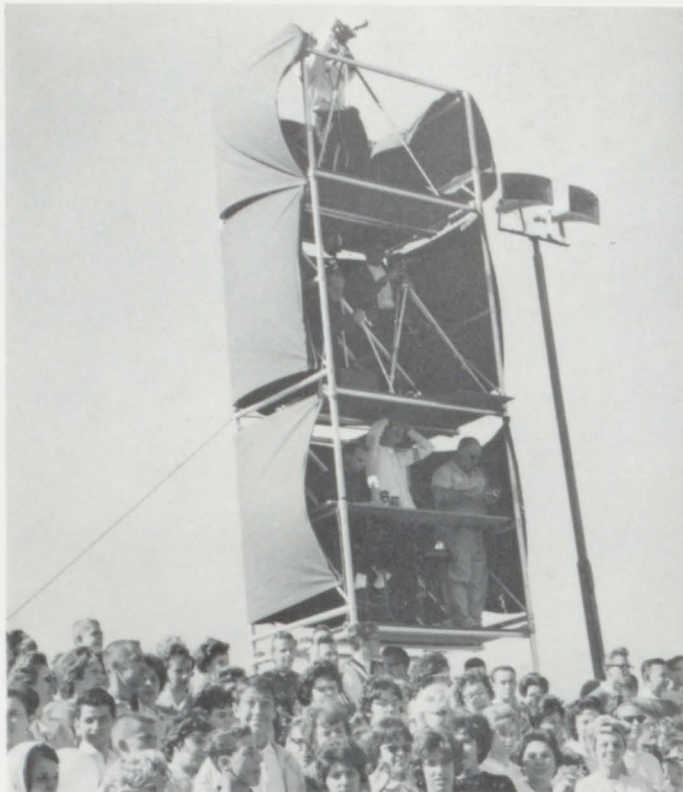

"GO, FIGHT, WIN" echoed throughout the gymnasium as loyal fans bellowed cheers at traditional seventh period pep assemblies. Amusing pep talks by coaches and players and clever skits presented by the cheerleaders helped to stimulate West's rooters and arouse the crowds to sufficient yelling volume. Jumping, screaming, pulling the crowds into the action of the game, the cheerleaders dressed in appropriate costumes added to the excitement of homecoming. All of the pep assemblies promoted spirit in team followers and gave Proviso West's players the incentive to challenge their keen competition.

UPPER CLASSMEN LEAVE WEST after four years of Proviso's daily routine and activities. Most remembered of all four years will be the senior year with memories of baby bounce and class rings and the opportunity of receiving a functional education complete with the influences and instructions of the faculty. Under every graduation cap was the thought of past senior friends and activities which filled the year of '64 with a turmoil of dances, banquets, coke hours, and scholastic rewards.

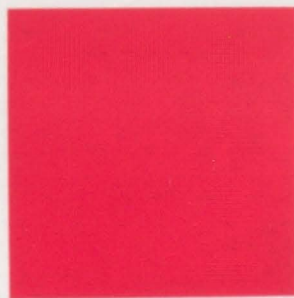

GALLOPING TO VICTORY IN OCTOBER SUNLIGHT, West began its third homecoming celebration by defeating West Leyden 12-7. Spurred on by the Old West theme, clubs presented a vivid half-time program of colorful floats and music. The selection of Queen Carla Rasmussen and the first-place Aquatic Staff float climaxed the entertainment. For a few hours bleachers were crowded with cheering students and alumni, but dusk found only bare boards as festivities shifted from football to dancing

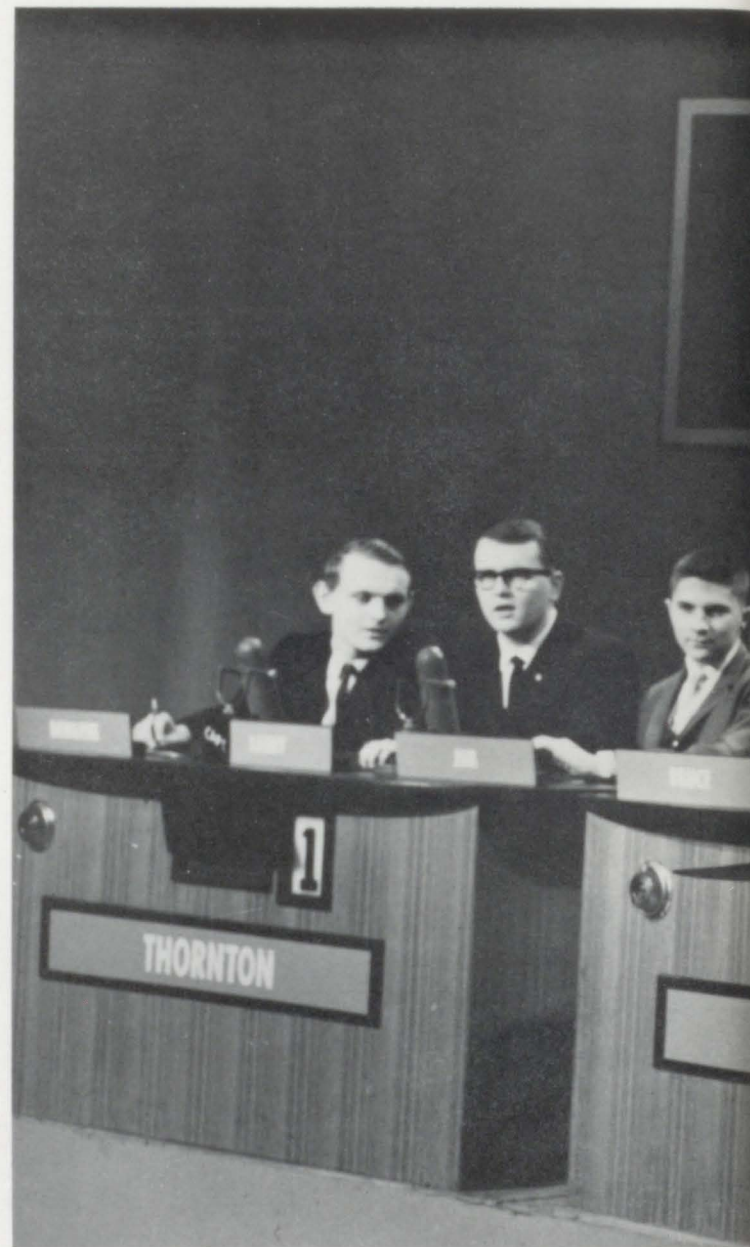

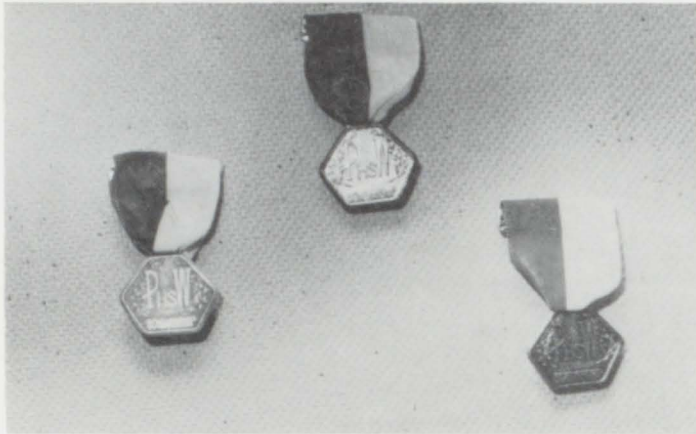

"UNDER THE WESTERN SKIES" Proviso West's returning alumni and students danced amid saddles and straw cowboys while the dual bands of Lane Emery and Grady Johnson provided "stereo" music from both ends of the gym. The western theme was reflected in the tumble weeds roaming the floor and punch served across the bar of the Sobriety Saloon. In contrast to the atmosphere of ten-gallon hats and lariats, Homecoming Queen Carla Rasmussen and her court of Carolyn Rzemieniski, Carol Schroeder, Donna Ebeling, and Joyce Corry were presented during the queen's crowning, glamorous in formals and orchids.

WEST FACED "IT'S ACADEMIC" CAMERAS at WNBQ when Nancy Currier, Jim Campbell and Scot Davis went down to defeat before the barrage of questions in a tension-filled encounter with New Trier and Thornton. Earlier, however, Scott Davis and Paul Hixson won a 2-1 decision in inter-school debate also before the television camera's on WBBM's "Rebuttal." Less public was the display of academic excellence at the Scholarship Assembly in the Little Theater where seniors received gold medals and underclassmen were also recognized for outstanding achievement.

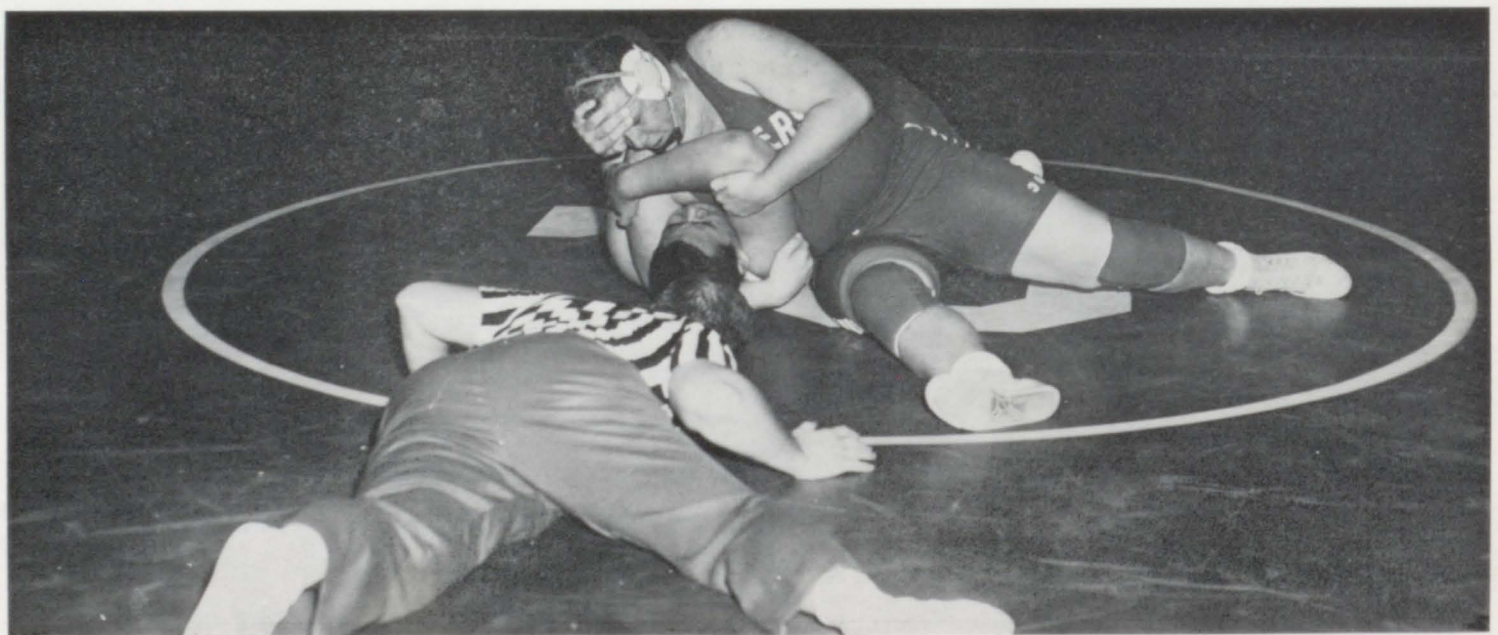

IT'S ACADEMIC

CHRISTMAS 1964 AT WEST was . . . the rich voices of the choir . . .
the lighted tree glowing at dusk in the quadrangle . . . the frantic morning confusion of mailing cards at the Christmas Post Office in A Building and, finally the unbelievable luxury of two unscheduled weeks of loafing . . .

SPORTS SPARK STUDENT INTEREST with spectacular antics and athletic performances from September to June. During the Junior-Senior Swim Relays Senior Class President Paul Hixson fulfilled his traditional obligation this year by tossing the defeated Junior Class President Rich Zalick into the pool. Equally entertaining, but on a more serious level, was interscholastic competition in which more than twenty-five teams in ten different sports defended West's record.

BANDS STRIKE A NOTE OF EXCITEMENT at Proviso dances as students welcome a relaxing evening of entertainment. With elaborate Spanish decorations promoting the theme of the dance, committees worked at growing trees and painting gardens for the winter dance. Juniors enjoyed a winter theme amid a flurry of snowflakes contrasting the warmth of the lighted fireplace. Although the flurry of winter did not add to the decorations of the "Dad - Daughter Date Night" a twist livened the dancing of couples while they competed for the prizes showing their "twistability."

FROM THE ELEGANT TO THE ABSTRACT, West's students demonstrated their acting versatility. The rustles and bustles of nineteenth century costumes provided atmosphere for the fall production of "The Heiress." The spring play, "Train of Thoughts, an Evening of One-Acts," presented three facets of conflict between intellect and three conflicts between intellect and emotion.

FUN NIGHTS RELEASED TENSION not only from the normal work filled week, but from the days of semester finals as well. I.D. cards and fifty cents entitled West students and their guests to an evening of ping pong, volley ball, swimming, dancing, and Proviso gossip. Once a month jostling, laughing crowds jammed the door of "A" building waiting impatiently to pay admission and be checked for shoe cleats before enjoying three hours of animated leisure.

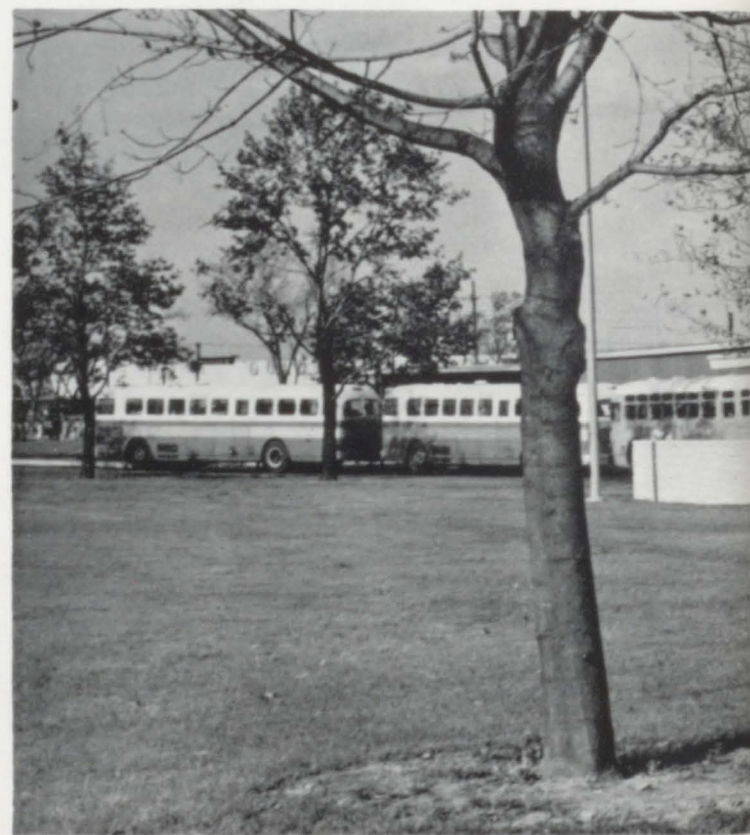

“I’LL TELL YOU A STORY” PROMISED THE TITLE, and in December, the Variety Show, directed by Mrs. Judith Tamarkin and Linda Riedl, rocketed through American history in a tuneful whirligig of songs and dances. In March the dance show, “Carousel,” shared the bill with Orchesis groups in their production of “Calendar Curtain Call,” a kaliedoscope of original dances which expressed the special character of each of the twelve months. For both productions Thursday matinees and Friday and Saturday night performances found the Little Theater filled with intent and appreciative audiences.

ARRESTINGLY, CLEANLY BEAUTIFUL, the buildings of Proviso West catch the eye of even the casual visitor, but West is more than an interesting example of contemporary architecture. In the early warmth of spring a glow falls across the mall that is not entirely a reflection of sunlight on rosy brick. The view from the windows of buses waiting in the circle drive on an autumn afternoon includes something beyond mere walks and walls and, in winter, when crystallized windows wink across the icy dark, the illumination is not altogether a matter of fluorescent light on snow. For the true face of Proviso West is vivid in every season with the pulsing vitality of the thousands of students who work and study there.

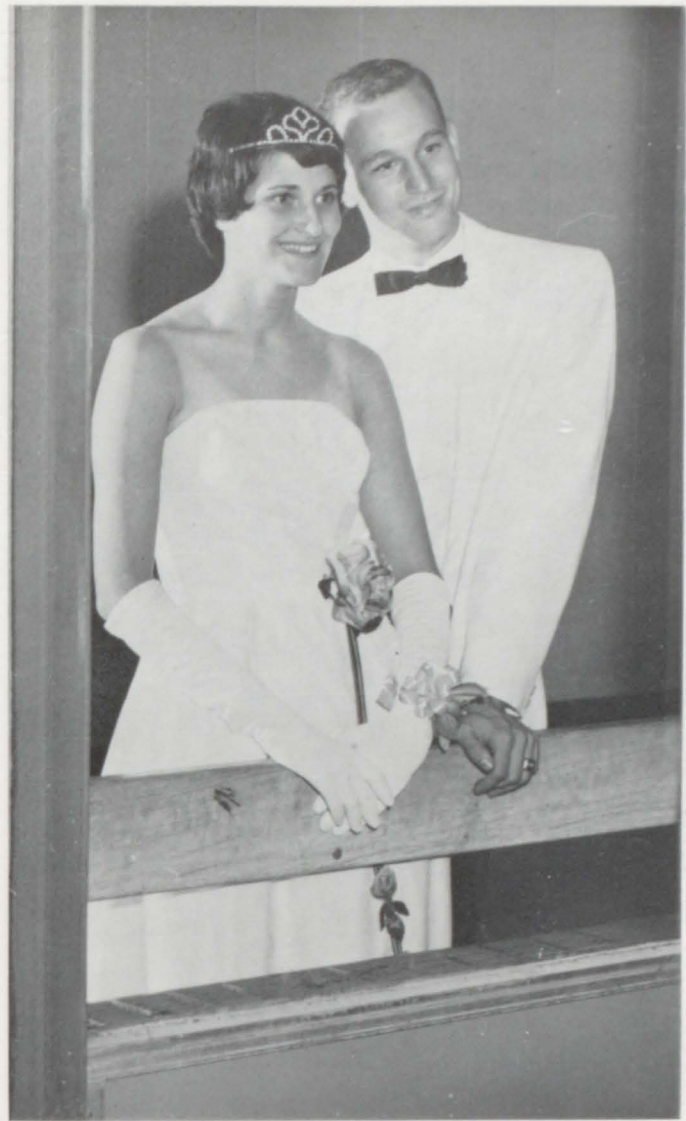

SPRING CAME WITH A "WHOOSH" DANGLING FROM THE CEILING of the gym—the gay, abstract theme of the Girls' League Sock Hop where couples, sauntering shoelessly, admired the unusual decorations. Easter brought seven inches of snow but West's traditional springtime activities moved along on schedule. The Student Council planned for all-school elections and the election board, instructed the candidates, regarding their qualification speeches before final presentation. Bow Week posters included at least one which turned the current enthusiasm for the Beatles toward class loyalty.

WEST'S MALL DIMMED AS "ALPINE TWILIGHT" SET IN and began a cool

evening amid Swiss chalets and snow capped mountains. Seniors and their guests enjoyed one of the final activities of the 1964 year as they danced and strolled against the background of Switzerland. To the entrancing music of Lane Emery, couples danced from nine to midnight during a memorable night of springtime in the Alps.

A TYPICAL DAY AT WEST BEGAN AT 8:10 as students released from "A"

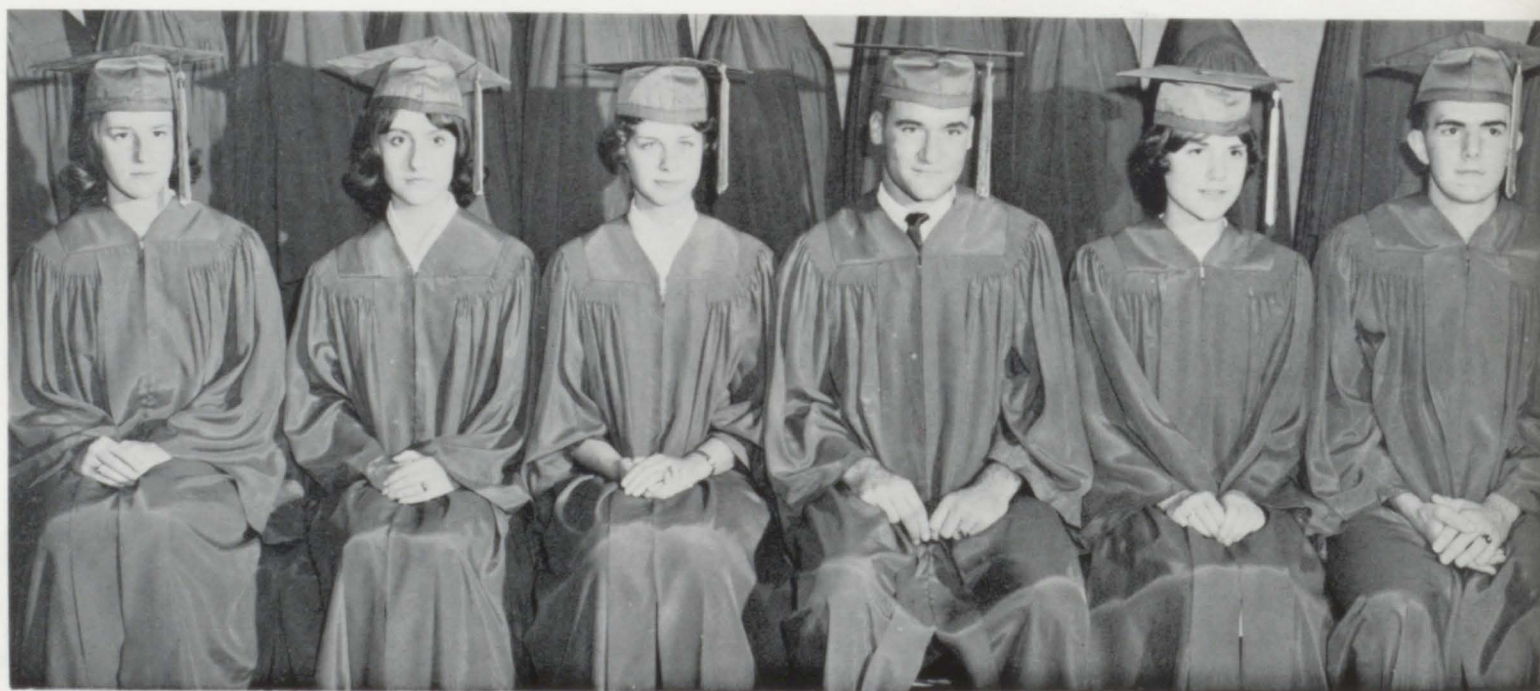

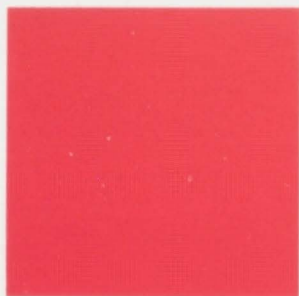

Building slammed lockers, accumulated their books, and crowded through the halls to homerooms. The shrill vibrations of the bell, period after period, signaled the repetition of the orderly storm of feet hurrying to class or library. Midway came lunch, blessed interval of food and gossip around the long tables in the cafeteria. Symbol of the daily routine of school activity were the monitors, picking up attendance slips or checking passes from their posts throughout the buildings. As the 3:25 bell rang the students once again crowded to their lockers before leaving West.

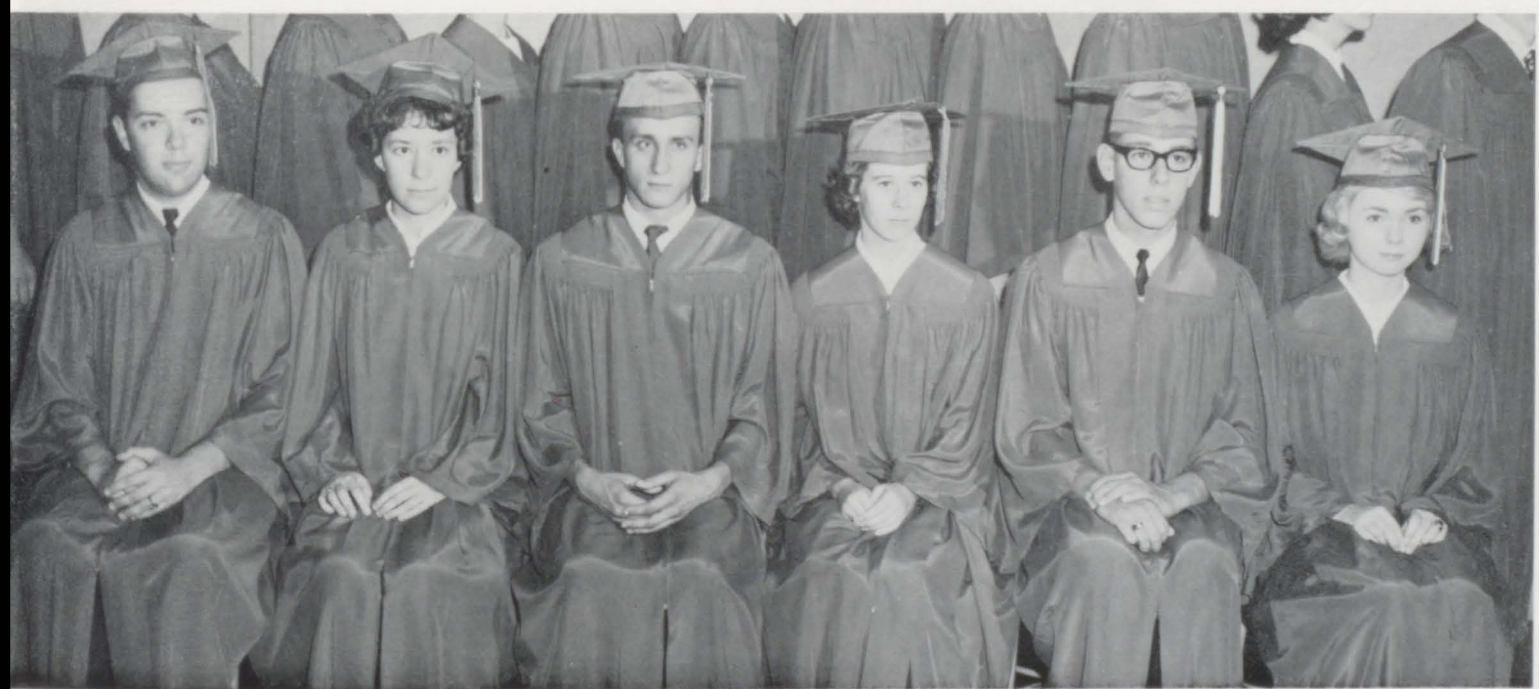

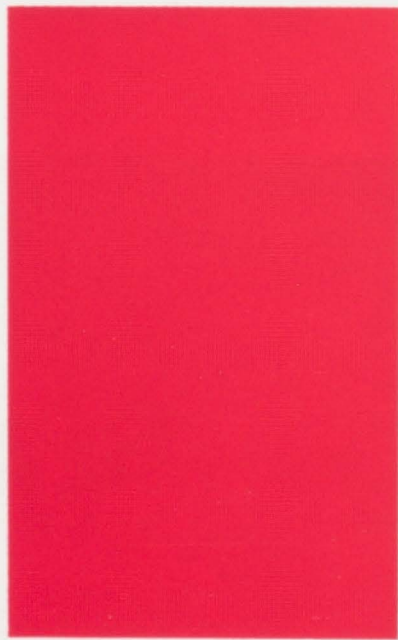

PROVISO WEST GRADUATES TURNED EAGERLY TOWARD PLANS for the future

as they clutched diplomas and tossed tassels to the correct sides of their mortar boards. To the freshmen of 1960, senior year seemed distant and settled but as seniors in 1964 the year actually was full of tension and uncertainty about college and vocational plans. The evening of June 8 was made more dramatic with talk of the past, and reminiscences of monthly fun nights, weekly Profiles, and daily homework. So, on graduation night, the faces of Proviso changed as each student turned toward his individual goals and left West and high school memories behind. The faces of teachers, the face of the building, and the expressions of all experiences lingered for one secure moment then faded in the frenzy of future plans.

Superintendent

DR. LEROY J. KNOEPPPEL

"Proviso West, from its beginning in 1958, has compared favorably with schools that have been established for many years. This is true of academic activities, social activities, and all phases of the school," states Dr. Knoepfel, who sees West as a school of consistently high standards. Prior to his present position, in 1954 he was superintendent at Arlington Heights High School. A man of many honors, Dr. Knoepfel received both his B.A. and honorary L.L.D. from Carthage College in Kenosha, Wisconsin. Although he received his M.A. at the University of Iowa, he has also done work at both Harvard and Columbia Universities. For the past ten years his main interest and concern has been to promote the welfare and development of Proviso East and West.

Board of Education

The continuing development and expansion of the educational program at both Proviso West and Proviso East were the chief concerns of the Board of Education this year. In line with this interest, work was done on setting up a schedule for future construction at both schools including plans for West's new field house.

Assistant Superintendent

MR. EDWARD W. STUBBS

As principal of Proviso West, Mr. Stubbs sees Proviso as the face of academic excellence. Principal and assistant superintendent since 1958, he has continued to advance the school in its academic activities and competitions. Mr. Stubbs has shown his skill in teaching, organization, and administration. Since his coming to Proviso Township in 1925 as a history teacher, he has been a senior boys' counselor, has headed East's history department, and directed the first evening school in the township. Now, as principal of Proviso West, he enjoys watching the faces of young people engrossed in activities contributing to their growth and maturity. He believes the good sportsmanship and citizenship of West's students is an active part of development. His concern is that students accept the responsibility for their future rights and privileges. With this goal in view he has created a school of genuine excellence.

Mr. Vallicelli and Office Co-ordinator, Miss Molly Cavannagh, discuss a problem concerning scheduling.

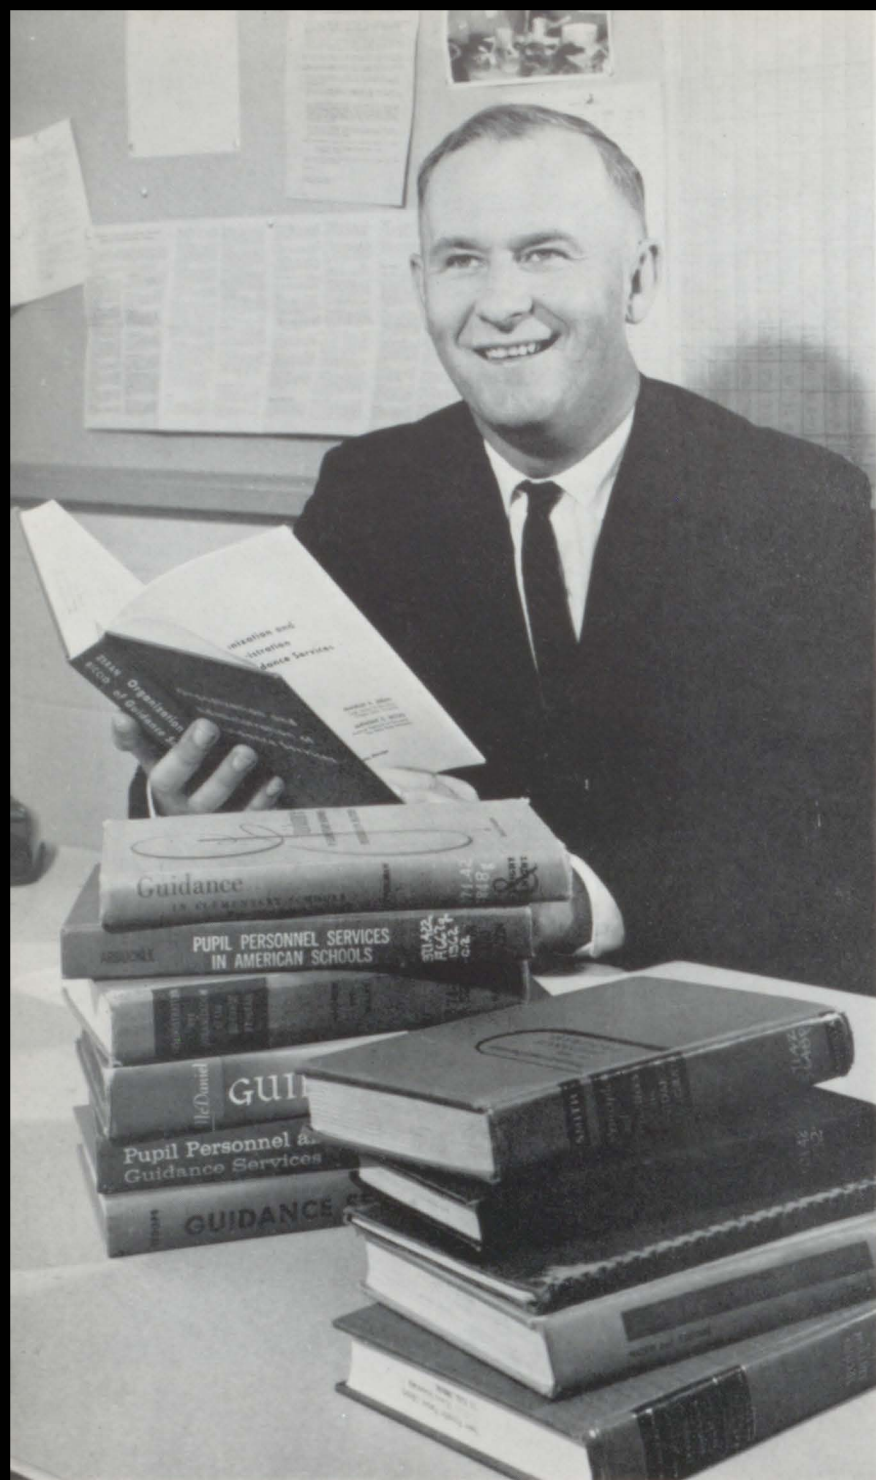

Administrative Assistant

MR. ARTHUR E. VALLICELLI

The collecting, checking, and processing of some 340,000 cards during each nine-week grading period is only one of Mr. Vallicelli's responsibilities as Administrative Assistant. Together with his staff he schedules classes, prepares the yearly calendar, and sets up and maintains the elaborate system of records without which no school can function. In addition he meets, with humor and understanding, innumerable daily problems of students and faculty. A graduate of Eastern Illinois University, Mr. Vallicelli completed his graduate work at Northwestern University. Though he has served in his present position since 1960, he has been part of Proviso for much longer, having been both a science teacher and a counselor.

Drop-outs and students lacking sufficient credits for graduation are still able to earn diplomas at Proviso West through the evening and summer school programs which are directed by Dr. Widergren. In addition to supervising the supplementary education program for both Proviso East and Proviso West. Dr. Widergren is also in charge of publicity, releasing information about school activities to newspapers, and preparing the bulletin, "Your High School Reports." After receiving his B.A. degree from Beloit College, Dr. Widergren obtained his M.A. from the University of Iowa and his Ed. D. at Wyoming University. As father of three young children, his interest in extending and expanding education to all high school students is a personal one.

Director of Continuing Education

DR. JOHN WIDERGREN

Dean of Students

MR. HUBERT A. PITT

Reporting the bulletin over the P.A. system, Mr. Pitt's voice has begun the daily routine for Proviso West since 1958. As a former Student Council sponsor and social studies teacher at Proviso East, he is well qualified to work with West's 3500 students. Two teen-age daughters give him further insight into the immediate problems of both students and parents. No phase of high school life fails to interest him. Consequently much of his free time is divided among sports events, dances, fun nights, and other student activities. Mr. Pitt's deepest interest, however, lies in guiding students in solving difficult problems of conduct and attitudes.

Paint Pots Overflow With Colorful Ideas

Would-be cartoonists, portrait-painters, commercial artists, and a liberal sprinkling of students who "just like to draw" create a bright world of their own in the well-equipped rooms of E-Building which houses West's art department. Working with chalk and paint, clay and wire, they crowd the long tables, stand before easels, and operate the kiln. The results of their activities are put on display during the annual Spring Art Show. Throughout the year, however, the display cases outside the art rooms carry examples of recently completed works. In addition to practical instruction in handling brush, pen, or modeling tool, the department also offers a humanities course which touches the entire world of art historically and critically, providing a cultural background which permits the student to view his own efforts from a more mature perspective and to provide for a greater artistic awareness throughout his entire life.

paintings, future artists interpret the world around them, using abstract forms and brilliant colors.

One-time mud pie artists expand their skills in craft classes, producing original and permanently beautiful pottery through the use of throwing wheel and kiln.

Future Stenogs Use Department Facilities to Sharpen Skills

Utilizing the most modern equipment, West's commercial department prepares students for the business world. Typing and shorthand provide aspiring secretaries with time-saving skills. Office practice acquaints students with proper procedures in filing and initiates them into the intricacies of a variety of office machines from mimeograph to IBM. The distributive education program, under the direction of Mr. Harvey Rothenberg, gives a selected group on-the-job training during which they spend half of each school day as actual wage-earners. The department also sponsors Future Business Leaders of America and assists in running the school store.

Counseling Sessions Guide And Inform

Mr. Derrill Brown
Truant Officer

Should I go to college? Where can I go to find a job? What subjects should I take next year? These and many other questions are answered by the guidance counselors during their weekly sessions with Proviso's students. Entering West as a freshman, a nervous student becomes acquainted with his individual counselor who will help guide and plan his next four years. In addition to the major problems of curriculum and activities, counselors aid the student in meeting the small, day-to-day crises of forgotten lunch money, girls' ripped hems and boys' lack of belts. Senior year the counselor serves as an invaluable source of information on both social and academic problems. Through individual and class conferences the guidance counselors are able to acquaint the student with college and vocational opportunities.

"True ease in writing comes from art, not chance," is a quotation the Proviso West English department takes literally, for its multi-level curriculum is designed to give every student an opportunity to develop his ability to write effectively to the fullest. Regular weekly or bi-weekly themes are required and theme folders are kept for every student. Though composition and grammar are stressed, wide reading is also encouraged, particularly through the use of classroom sets of paper-back classics in addition to the required texts. Honors classes provide opportunities for challenging exploratory reading and enriched literary appreciations especially valuable to the college bound. Occasional excursions take advantage of nearby Chicago's plays and concerts. The College Preparatory Honors class this year enjoyed an afternoon dress-rehearsal of the Chicago Lyric Opera's production of The Barber of Seville. The department makes frequent use of audiovisual materials, maintaining its own collection of records and drawing, in addition, on records and films from other sources. Team teaching, which permits specially qualified teachers to work with more students during a given class period, was expanded this year. Nearly 400 students in thirteen classes under eight teachers working in teams of two or three are now involved in the program. Another innovation was the introduction of a class in practical stagecraft whose members designed and constructed sets for both all-school plays. Special talents and interests are further recognized by the public speaking, debate, creative writing, dramatics, and newswriting courses.

Home Economics Students Prepare for Challenge Of Dictaphone or Dishes

Trying to achieve a balance between the two worlds of today's women, Proviso West's home economics department stresses both the home and the business world. Courses in clothing include information on grooming which prepares future wives and mothers to keep clothes repaired as well as practice in creating new garments both flattering and inexpensive. Home decoration classes teach the art of interior decoration, as they study present and past trends in home and furniture styles. Unusual table and wall decorations were constructed by students themselves. West's department emphasizes the needs and problems of modern families and homes in family living classes. Girls preparing for the future become familiar with the difficulties of setting up workable budgets and housekeeping routines. Education, which upon graduation, can be translated immediately into terms of dollars and cents is the boast of Proviso West's industrial arts department. Theory and actual shop experience in local garages is available in auto-mechanics. Finely-equipped print shops at both East and West gave students employable skills in graphic arts. Machine and architectural drawing turn out draftsmen capable of moving directly into industrial drafting rooms, while vocational machine shop graduates are also in demand by employers. Two new electronics courses this year offer instruction in both telegraphic and radio communication and in TV circuitry. An orientation course, which gave experiences in four different vocational fields, provided background for the beginning industrial arts student, and wood shop gave additional training in prevocational skills. A recent addition to the department was the diversified occupations program which permitted selected students to work during part of each school day in offices or laboratories.

Sight and Sound Concepts Improve Lingual Studies

To enable its 1400 language students to further their comprehension of a foreign language, Proviso offers the latest films, records, and tapes. Latin, French, German, Russian, and Spanish are taught by instructors who have either been born or have studied abroad. The sight and sound concepts are stressed through films, periodicals, foreign flash cards, and records. The library also aids the language students with its eight hundred tapes and twenty listening post stations. This year three new pilot courses used the Audio-Lingual Method for learning languages for functional use through films, records, and intensive practice in speaking in everyday situations. Already many honors have been received through the Latin and Modern Language students. Each year contestants participate in state or national examinations. Besides examinations and preparing dialogues, Latin students organized R.O.M.E. under the sponsorship of Miss Farrell and Miss Nissim which enjoyed classical films and plays and trips to places of interest.

To develop this knowledge, West's math department utilizes modern instructional material. This is only one of the many devices used to help students meet the increase in demand for the comprehension of mathematics. Interested mainly in teaching the major fundamentals of logical and precise thinking, the department also tries to stress the "why" of mathematics as well as the "how" and "what."

West's music department aims to provide an opportunity for every student to develop and use his musical talent through guided training and concert performances. Specialized vocal and instrumental training is offered to students in choir, concert band, and orchestra. The department maintains a useful music program which gives talented students an opportunity to develop and enjoy their abilities in any of the eleven choirs, bands, or orchestras. Besides two yearly concerts the cadet and concert bands perform for football and basketball games, pep rallies, and special assemblies. Expansion in the department has resulted in a new mixed chorus and prep band. Proviso's students receive music appreciation through various activities which the department offers.

Seeking information for term papers and numerous other projects, researchers use new south library.

New South Library Proves Welcome Aid to Research

Students finishing term papers, choosing books for reports or for leisure reading, daily fill the library and put its facilities to use. Besides aiding the students in their research, the library has increased its collection by adding audio visual materials, microfilm, books, pamphlets, and magazines. The aims of the library service are to assist the expanding research needs of the student and to have a current collection of valuable materials. Ear phones also are an extra aid to West's students. Tapes and recordings are not only a help to the foreign language student, but also to all of the students who are in an English class. Short stories, poems, and English literature are available on the ten ear phone channels. The south library room, being used for its first full school year, provides extra shelf space for Proviso's 20,000 books. This room houses the fiction, short story, and reserve book collection. Every morning the library extends twenty minutes of study or research to the students before homeroom. This extra time and effort put in by the library staff results in the students' greater understanding and appreciation of West's literary facilities.

Every year the Audio-visual Department purchases an additional fifty new films and numerous film strips, records and tapes. The department projected about sixteen thousand films this year, more than during any previous year. Use of audio-visual materials was improved by the addition of a 35 mm automatic film-strip projector, a 16 mm film viewer, and a Proto-Printer for making color transparencies, to make many of the newest techniques for teaching available to the entire faculty. Next year the department anticipates a room where all teachers will have convenient facilities for the preparation of their own overhead projection transparencies.

Individual Capabilities Develop Through Sports

Far from being considered supplementary in Proviso's curriculum, physical education is an important and integral part of the total education program. Each student received four years of instruction in varied activities designed to develop his individual capabilities. Ten interscholastic sports drew hundreds of boys as active participants, but the PE classes gave every student the opportunity to take part in such team sports as touch football, volley ball and basketball, as well as swimming, golf, wrestling, gymnastics, and tennis. Classes in dance were a popular and valuable part of the girls' physical education program. Both boys and girls attended classes in first aid and hygiene and restricted gym classes, designed to make it possible for even the handicapped student to participate to the limits of his abilities. All available activities were supported by trained and interested teachers. Special courses were scheduled for sports during the seventh hour to allow extra time for practice and work in fundamentals to those taking part in interscholastic competition.

More than merely a refuge from boring classrooms and unfinished homework, the nurses' office serves Proviso with both helpful and healthful facilities. Throughout the school year Miss Gould and Miss Garramone plan screening programs which include physical examinations, freshman dental examinations, vision and hearing exams, and TB tests. All illnesses, accidents, and emergencies are also met with careful consideration and action. Other services of the school nurses include supervision of yearly mobile chest x-ray, flu injections, and tests administered to Proviso's faculty and personnel. Interested in introducing the fundamentals of first-aid and home nursing, the nurses demonstrate rules and procedures to the senior hygiene classes.

From the basic background courses in general science to the complexities of physics' slide rules and formulas, the science department at Proviso West sought to prepare students to better understand the problems which increasing scientific knowledge has presented and continues to present. Though a few freshmen were permitted to go directly into biology, most acquired in general science a basis from which to choose their later science courses. Biology I this year included the traditional insect collections, laboratory dissections, and lectures supplemented by the liberal use of teaching films. Biology II, an elective course, provided opportunity for college-level work in the life sciences. Plans are in preparation, however, for the introduction next year of some of the new approaches to biological science developed by the Biological Curriculum Study. Chemistry and physics, which are open to juniors and seniors, are of particular interest to the college-bound students. Experimental use of new approaches is also being contemplated in these areas for next year. In connection with improved science instruction, West's science department, along with eight other suburban high schools, participated this year in a study conducted by the University of Florida. Members of the physics classes took the Holzinger-Crowder Unifactor Test in September and in May to assist in assessing the effectiveness of the traditional as compared with the newer presentations of physical concepts developed by the Physical Science Study Committee.

An appreciation of the rich heritage of the American citizen and an understanding of foreign cultures is the aim of the social studies department. From ancient Greece to yesterday's Moscow, the future leaders and citizens who occupied the classrooms of Proviso West profited by studying the experiences of the past and discussing the events of the present. In psychology students were made more aware of the workings of their own minds as well as acquiring a more intelligent appreciation of others' motives and needs. By promoting a program intended to assist the student in developing his own concepts and beliefs, the social studies department took part in creating better Americans.

Business Staff Maintains High School Efficiency

Situated at the nerve center of all school activities the busy secretarial staff kept routine moving smoothly and efficiently. Their work included scheduling school activities, taking telephone messages, compiling the daily school bulletin and handling enrollment cards. In addition, activity fees, employees' payrolls, government reports, requisitions, school mail and the purchase of supplies were also among their responsibilities. Secretaries of English, physical education, and counseling departments were concerned with specialized assignments, but other departments depended upon the general secretarial pool for such services as mimeographing of tests and grading of IBM examinations. Issuing texts, collecting fines and checking eligibility sheets were also functions of the general office staff.

The Reading Center becomes a familiar spot to students who work to increase reading speed and comprehension.

Between 140 and 150 students availed themselves this year of the facilities of the Reading Improvement Center. Under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, the Center, a segment of the English Department, provided individual assistance on a non-credit basis to any student wishing to increase his reading efficiency. Employing a variety of material and machines, students were aided in the improvement of reading rate, comprehension, and vocabulary. The Speech and Hearing Clinic, directed by Mr. Charles Moore, diagnosed and treated all types of speech disorders in addition to teaching lip-reading. Mrs. Patricia Buhrow is also available as a teacher of the blind.

Maintenance Staff Gives Around-the-Clock Service

Shining floors, gleaming windows, walks free of snow — Proviso students scarcely notice them. However, without the work of West's custodial staff under the supervision of Mr. Werner, the daily routine of class and after-school activities would quickly become impossible.

"Bar-burgers on Bun" Ban 3500 Huge Hungers

Dealing with Proviso's 3,500 different appetites, Mrs. Dorothy Accardi, head dietician, tries to vary the menus to appeal to all students. After serving a breakfast of rolls and juice to students with "early morning hunger," the cafeteria staff prepares for its five daily lunch periods. With the help of twenty-six women, lunches range from spaghetti to chuck-wagon steak. Producing meals that are both nourishing and appetizing provides a challenge to the staff but results in West's well-fed students. The staff also supervises food preparation for banquets and other activities. With similar goals of service the matrons assist both students and teachers. Pinning on corsages at dances and routine maintenance of lounges and locker rooms are among their varied chores.

Two Students Imported Via Student Council

Members of the Student Council Executive board met every day to plan the projects and activities for the year. During "XO" periods homeroom representatives along with council officers and committee chairmen discussed and voted on these plans. Through the Student Council's foreign Exchange Program, Anna Hage of Sweden and Jo Kleinschmidt of Germany attended school with Provisoites all year. The Student Council sponsored an all-school red-and-white day which ended with a roaring pep assembly before the Homecoming weekend. The Council supervised the crowning of the queen, the game, and the dance, "Under the Western Skies," which climaxed the weekend festivities. All students had the opportunity to try out for the annual Student Council Variety Show "We'll Tell You a Story." Our nation's history highlighted the show. Profits from the Christmas Post Office supplemented the Council's contingency fund which was used to buy various items for school organizations. The mid-winter Valentine dance, "Enamorados," opened Spanish gardens and romance softened by Jim Kleeman and his band. Along with spring came the elections of class, Girls' League, and Council officers under the direction of the Student Council Elections Committee. Throughout the year the Student Council's display case gave recognition to sports and other activities.

Guided by their sponsors, the four officers and twelve committee chairmen have devoted their time to achieving the Girls' League goal, to involve all girls in a wholesome social organization. "Big Sisters" started off the year's program by helping lost freshmen to find their classes. The annual get-together, "Aloha," offered new students the opportunity to get acquainted with each other as well as the activities of the League. Girls who were interested in modeling had an opportunity to try out for the fall fashion show. The girls modeled the latest in casual and sports wear at prices to fit everyone's pocket book. "Yuletide Yodel," the annual Christmas party, provided entertainment, refreshments, and fun to the members as the year drew to a close. Girls' League started off 1964 with a "Mop Flop." This meeting showed members the appropriate hair styles for campus wear. Even fathers were included in the new year's program, as the League held its annual dad-and-daughter date night, "My Heart Belongs to Daddy." The League collected "An Army of Toys for the Salvation Army," as their annual service project. "Bow Week" climaxed the year's activities. Rivalries continued throughout the week as classes tried to out-do each other in their purchase of green, yellow, blue, or red bows. The week was highlighted by the annual Sock-Hop, "Whoosh-sh."

An extensive library of 20,000 books needs a great deal of maintenance. In Proviso West's library rooms the books are checked and shelved by sixty-five industrious people. These library pages not only shelve books but also straighten the rooms, collect slips and check honor roll cards. Even with the three full time librarians the demands of the extensive collection could not be fulfilled without the pages volunteering. The library pages devote study periods to aid the staff in many ways. This year, with the south library room open and new publications continually being made available, the pages had a greater number of books to organize and shelve. Acting as "junior librarians" the pages offered their assistance to all the students hunting for books.

Red Derbies Turn Key To Locked Finances

To serve their school and community was the goal of the Proviso West Key Club. Forty-five selected members of the three upper classes, guided by Mr. Tom DeHaven, met every week before school in the Little Theatre to plan their projects. A fall and spring car wash provided one source of income for the organization. Key clubbers sold peanuts and pancakes for their sponsor, the Westchester Kiwanis Club, and they ushered Westlake Memorial Hospital patients to chapel for three consecutive Sundays in the fall. "Derby Day" highlighted the winter's activities. Proceeds from the sale of red and white derbies went to the needy children of the Dixon Mental Institution. Other projects included providing a Santa Claus for the Christmas assembly, waiting on tables at banquets, running coat checks of any school organization, and sponsoring a "dress right" campaign. A "Driver's Rodeo" was held in the spring, and a trophy was awarded to West's students who excelled in certain skills.

Mural "Faces" Problems Of Yearbook Theme

This year the staff not only added a new telephone to the Mural office but also added a new sponsor. Mrs. Jessie Veach along with the editors worked amid piles of cropped pictures, misplaced dummy pages, and corrected galleys, worrying about final deadlines. Although to most of West's students seventh period was only one hour away from the final bell, in C-313 the "bell" often rang at 6:00. At 2:30 the room was in chaos with twelve editors typing, cropping, and screaming for help. During the week of October 16 a unique face appeared at West—"Muriel" pranced through the cafeteria proclaiming the dual sale of elephants and Murals. Using the theme "The Faces of Proviso West" the staff and photographers raced around the buildings to find the different moods and expressions of the school. Near the end of the year the moods of Mural changed with the turmoil of getting ready for publication and competition. The '64 Mural caught the faces of Proviso and printed a record of its ever-changing atmosphere.

For the second consecutive year the Proviso West Profile earned the much-coveted Pacemaker Award which is presented annually by the American Newspaper Publishers Association to the five outstanding school newspapers in the United States. No other school newspaper has ever before achieved the honor on two successive years. The Profile's 1963 Pacemaker was presented at the National Scholastic Press Association convention in November. A dedicated and diligent staff and editors were responsible for the paper's high general level of excellence. Although its pages emphasized West's activities, the Profile was not completely a "high school" paper. Its scope extended to provocative world happenings and, under the direction of Mr. Arthur Levin, the '64 staff also produced special issues for Brotherhood, Safety, and Education Weeks as well as colorful features on college, seniors, and academic departments of the school. Seventeen board members, along with the general staff and reporters issued each Thursday a paper which faculty and students alike found entertaining and informative.

Forensics Speaks For Proviso West's Ideas

Nearly every Saturday morning busses awaited NFL members to take them to another challenging speech tournament. Members were given opportunities to display their talents in poetry, prose, comedy and serious readings, and original oratory. Members interested in other types of speech were also offered opportunities through oratorical declamation, radio, after dinner, and extemporaneous speaking. Under the supervision of Mr. James Waage the group traveled to Normal, Peoria, and Bradley Universities to compete. With the experience and diligence of these young orators the school received honors and ratings of superior quality. The recognition of West's Forensics League has become more publicised by morning announcements of the weekend wins and the show case in building "A" advertising the league's results in state and district tournaments. In order to participate in the achievement of the organization forensics members need twenty-five points which were awarded on the basis of tournament accomplishments.

Debaters Place First In Bradley Tournament

"Resolved: That social security benefits should be extended to include complete medical care" provided a debatable topic for Proviso's eighteen club members. Ranked among the best squads in the state, debaters from West were able competitors for top honors at tournaments. After winning several contests Mr. Waage, coach, hoped the teams would terminate the season with a high standing in state championship competition. Underlying the wins and losses was the advanced preparation for debates which were often won and lost in the library while researching materials. Five debaters attended special courses in speech and debate last summer at Illinois State University and Michigan State University. The debaters remained continually up to date on latest development relating to debate questions.

Future Nurses Cure Dixon's Lack of Toys

Loaded down with stuffed animals for the children, Future Nurses toured Dixon State Hospital during their first service project. By issuing new membership cards to interested students, the club grew to one-hundred-ten members who hoped to learn what nursing offered. On November 10 another field trip was scheduled. By becoming acquainted with surgical equipment, the members benefited from the visit to St. Anne's School of Nursing. From these trips the girls became familiar with numerous schools and hospitals in which they would be training in for the next three years. Medical terms, hospital scholarships, and patients' personalities were discussed by lecturers to prepare the members for their careers. Sponsored by Miss Myrtel Gould and Miss Dolores Garramoni, West's nurses, the club had two professional women to answer the technical questions of nursing. As a chartered member of the National Future Nurses Club since February 21, 1961, the organization extended more service activities and trips to members. In the beginning of the year the new girls were shown "Girls in White" to explain the demands of nursing. Throughout the year the members gained greater understanding about entrance requirements and courses in nursing schools. The Chicago area hospitals were toured and enthusiasm heightened as the members worked with school nurses to strengthen career understanding. Following high school graduation these members will no longer read about or tour around hospital grounds but instead be an active part of a hospital and patient's life.

School Store Provides Experience for FBLA

Becoming better office workers was the ultimate aim of Proviso's chapter of Future Business Leaders of America. Under the sponsorship of Miss Hodgson and Mr. Bober, members were given the opportunity to extend their business skills and interests. Every morning FBLA members managed the school store to acquire selling and buying training. Although the club emphasized the business and consumer's life, it also included entertainment. The club sponsored an Christmas party for members and a coke hour for the alumni after the homecoming game.

Honored Seniors Light NHS Symbolic Torch

Outstanding character and intelligence were required for the acceptance into the Proviso West chapter of the National Honor Society. Representing the oath to scholarship, leadership, and achievement, the ninety-seven members of the society solemnly pledged themselves to the aim of service through learning at the November initiation. After symbolically receiving the light of knowledge from the central torch, the students and parents proceeded to the Little Theater for the address of Dr. Arlo Schilling, President of North Central College. Under the direction of Mr. John Slimmer the induction ceremony became the scholastic climax of four high school years. After experiences at Proviso West the members' plans for college or business careers added to their worthy aims. Realizing their honored scholastic positions, members of NHS strove to continue to uphold the high standards of Proviso West as well as the standards of their college years and future lives.

Challenging Chessmen Check Competition

Looking for an intellectual sport, Proviso's students found West's Chess Club provided exactly the entertainment which interested them. Although a small club, its activities were frequent and its members well-versed in the knowledge of pawns and checkmates. Working to improve strategic skills, West's chess men contended with other schools to gain a wider range of competition ability and to extend the pleasure of the games.

Club Probes World of Missiles and Molecules

Occupied with all the phases of science, avid club members worked to understand its basic principles and mysteries. Biology, chemistry, and other areas of study helped to strengthen the member's knowledge of the unknown. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Thomas Lignell, members plan to utilize the benefits of science in future college and business hours. Outside of the usual classroom routine, the members relaxed with the satisfaction of being familiar with a technical and specific hobby.

Radio Station W9BX Transmits Club Work

Sponsored by Dr. Darwin Appleton, Chairman of the Science Department, the Proviso West Radio Club completed its fourth year of existence as members gained valuable knowledge and experience in the field of radio communication. Beginning members had to learn the fundamentals of radio operation and code transmitting before they could operate West's radio station W9BX.

Lettermen Bring First Wheel Chair Game to West

Being active sportsmen, the Lettermen were interested in extending entertaining sports to Proviso West students. With this intention, the club sponsored the Junior-Senior and Wheel Chair Basketball games. Although the year's schedule was filled with Proviso's athletics, in spring the "young men's fancy" turned to thoughts of the Lettermen's dance and next year's sports.

Enthusiasm Boosted By Squad's Spirited Yells

Enthusiastic yells were heard from Proviso West's Racket Squad members at all football and basketball games this year. At each game, members could be seen sitting in the specially designated portion of the bleachers. Their cheers and cries of encouragement have more than once boosted the morale of the players and led them on to victory. Racket Squad's goal is to inject pep into the student body. Mrs. Beatty, the organization's sponsor, along with the board, have frequent meetings to arrange for transportation and sell tickets to away games. Members go to Mrs. Beatty to receive their permission slips. A slip, returned with the signature of the parent, entitles the student to ride the school bus to that week's game. This organization makes it possible for our school to be well represented at all away games. At the end of the year a medal is given to the member who has devoted the most time and energy towards fulfilling Racket Squad's goal.

"Thunderation" Rolls When Proviso Cheers

From the beginning of the season in April until the end a year later, West's cheerleaders taught and learned cheers, planned pep assemblies, and conducted a clinic to train prospective cheerleaders. From the start of football until the end of basketball they were caught up in the excitement of homecoming, the prospects of new varsity uniforms, the spring and holiday tournaments, the pride and disappointments of wins and losses, and finally, amazement that the year ended so quickly. The girls also strengthened the loyalty of the school and the friendship of visiting competitors. In addition to the active schedule the cheerleaders constantly practiced on new cheers and formations. From the loudest to the shyest each of the sixteen girls helped to turn the faces of Proviso into the roaring crowds at all games.

GAA Receive Pep Awards For Loyalty

Active girls were given more opportunities to acquire and develop skills as members of the Girls' Athletic Association. Tennis, volley ball, swimming, bowling, and gymnastics were a few of the activities in which members participated. The year's program started off with a "Fun and Fizz" get-acquainted party. In October students anxiously awaited the association's taffy apple sale. A Christmas party provided entertainment and fun for all GAA members. Girls received local and state awards for their participation in activities.

Aquatic staff members plunged into H2O Week activities with the all-school swim and the Junior-Senior swim relays. During XO periods, the pool balcony provided "dry land" for the staff to meet and plan their program. The scheduling of Panther relays and splash parties was also organized during these meetings. The organization proved to be more than a sporting club by serving the school through selling concessions, teaching swimming to grade school children, and lifeguarding at fun nights. The effort and work of all the members during homecoming gained the first place float trophy for the club. Also for the swimmers were the Christmas party and the June picnic and splash party which introduced Aquatic Staff members to a sport they enjoy.

Marinettes Splash Into Gay "Watercolors"

Using hybrid strokes and water ballet stunts, the Marinette Swim Club splashed into the spring water show. With the theme "Watercolors" the shades and moods of spring were characterized by synchronized movements which the girls learned during weekly practices. Under the direction of Mrs. Jacqueline Pracko, the members became more talented in difficult stunts. To learn these swim activities, the Marinettes sent representatives to Northwestern University for a session of water study. Prior to the choosing of the girls, a fall workshop was held for future members to practice their aqua abilities.

Dance Show Opens With "Calender Curtain Call"

Levels, heavy movements, and focus soon became part of the Orchesis working vocabulary as the 180 members studied various techniques and theories. Beginning in January, girls practiced the skill of graceful choreography as they prepared for the Dance Show in March. Meeting weekly, study groups practiced dances which included character, tap, ballet, modern, and acrobatic study. Planned around a calendar theme, the dances represented the twelve months of the year. Following the evening performance on Saturday, the girls who were in beginning Orchesis, became regular members of the club. The satisfaction of designing, buying, and making costumes for the show called for more than just dancing talent. By co-ordinating costumes to dance theme, Proviso's Orchesis show was produced with professional unity.

Under the direction of Miss Ann Farrell, the officers were based on the form of Roman government including two consuls, one censor, two tribunes, two gualstores, and three aediles. The meetings were held every other week and induction was twice a year. The main purposes of ROME were to create enthusiasm for the Latin language, Roman customs, history, and culture. The club also hoped to reinforce the value of study of Latin as related to our modern life.

Cine Club Focuses on Visual Techniques

Under the tunnel and across from the Little Theater, labors an industrious club called Cine. Meeting every XO period and after school, the members are trained by their enthusiastic sponsor, Mr. Henry Walli, to operate and service the slide and movie projectors, record players, tape recorders and photo-duplicating equipment used so extensively at West. To qualify for Cine, members are required to maintain a 3.5 grade average and be able to accept responsibility. As members of the National Audio-Visual Association, the club visited exhibits and participated in national programs.

Films to be shown in various classrooms are taken from an extensive collection by Cine Club members Craig Migasi and Daniel Foss.

West's Trained Voices Perform Concert Shows

Meeting during the week to improve their voices, the Proviso West Boy's Chorus performed under the skillful direction of Mr. Irwin Bell. Diligently practicing all year in preparation for the State Music Contest held in the spring, membership in the School Choir was the primary objective of the Chorus. To attain this goal the boys analyzed and rehearsed their singing and offered concerts throughout the year to improve their poise. Besides developing the skills of the chorus, these concerts gave the community a chance to watch and hear the improvements of the boys' voices. This vocal training also gave the boys an excellent opportunity to raise their talents for acceptance in the Mixed Chorus and the Choir. In this way Proviso West's Choir was always assured of some of the finest voices.

Mr. Bell expertly directs West's choir and choruses.

The Christmas concert was held at Proviso East's renovated auditorium.

Freshmen Girls Learn Basic Choral Skills

Incoming Proviso West freshmen girls who showed interest in singing were given the opportunity to audition for the Freshmen Girls' Chorus during the spring of their eighth-grade year. As members of the Chorus they learned to interpret many types of music and received both individual and group instruction. Taking part in the Christmas concert was the most important activity of the year.

After many hours of practice the Girls' Chorus give their performance at the annual Christmas concert.

Girls' Chorus trained one hundred-sixty sophomores, juniors, and seniors, who qualified on the basis of a musical tryout. Girls showing outstanding vocal qualities were given opportunities as vocal soloists. The Chorus gave their perennial Christmas and spring concerts this year, which increased the experience of the girls, and stimulated their interest to participate in other choral activities. In addition, these concerts gave some valuable opportunities for the Chorus to perform to a more critical audience than usual. Annually chosen from the Advanced Girls' Chorus were two ensembles which participated with other schools in community programs and entertained West's pupils at assemblies and other various functions throughout the school year. The ensembles ended their year by competing in the State Music Contest, ably representing Proviso West.

Much Practice Results In Choir's Fine Performance

Under the direction of Mr. Irwin Bell, the Choir, Proviso West's top choral organization, offered eligible students many opportunities to develop and display their talents. A student who wished to become a member of the Choir needed previous singing experience, and he had to pass a highly competitive audition. Throughout the year Choir members performed for clubs, churches, and other community organizations. In the spring, the Choir toured local schools to interest eighth grade students in musical programs made available to them at Proviso. Soloists and ensembles were chosen by Mr. Bell to represent West at the Illinois State Music Festival.

Mixed Chorus Provides New Vocal Opportunities

Introduced for the first time this year was a new choral group, the Mixed Chorus. It consisted of approximately sixty members: boys with previous experience in Freshmen Boys' Chorus, and girls who participated in Girls' Chorus or Advanced Girls Chorus. Members received advanced training in vocal methods by being introduced to mixed choir music. The group performed at the Christmas and Spring Choral Festivals held in the Proviso East Auditorium. An opportunity for more students to have choir experience has been opened by the Mixed Chorus, which also serves as a prerequisite to membership in the Choir.

A colorful spectacle was presented each time the Proviso West Majorettes performed at school and community affairs. Last fall, they displayed their skills at the annual Bataan Day Parade held in Maywood. During the football season they marched proudly and with lively precision to the music of West's band. Occasional performances by the majorettes during the half-time at basketball games further showed their abilities. Their versatility was shown in their costumes as well as their performances. From the western outfits worn at Homecoming to the blue sailor costumes of the last basketball game, the majorettes always appeared and performed at their best. In addition to studying privately, the girls met every day during third hour to perfect their skills.

Band Officers Elected For First Time in '64

Three Proviso West bands provided music for various school and community activities throughout the school year. The Prep Band consisted of approximately forty-five students, most of whom were freshmen. The cadet band was made up of fifty completely uniformed players of all classes. The Concert Band consisted of approximately eighty members plus nine talented majorettes. In addition, there was an instrumental class to train students for other bands. The bands held two candy sales in the cafeteria to raise funds for partial scholarships for twenty-four instrumentalists who were selected to attend the University of Wisconsin's summer music camp. Two majorettes were selected to attend a majorette camp located at Butler University in Indianapolis, Indiana. The Cadet and Concert bands combined to provide musical entertainment at all home football games, and the instrumental class and Cadet and Prep Bands played for home basketball games. West's Concert Band, majorettes, and color guard, participated in the Maywood Bataan Day Parade, and a winter and spring concert at the Proviso East Auditorium gave band members, soloists, and ensembles an opportunity to display their talents. Outstanding instrumentalists were selected on the basis of ability and desire to compete in the State Contest. At the final concert of the year medals were presented to the outstanding musicians from the Prep, Cadet, and Concert Band, while music pins were awarded to seniors and to deserving band members on the basis of superior contest grades, concert performances, attendance, and conduct.

Cat Gridmen Start Strong But Finish 3-5

Jerry Bulmann and Coach Gilbert confer on offensive strategy.

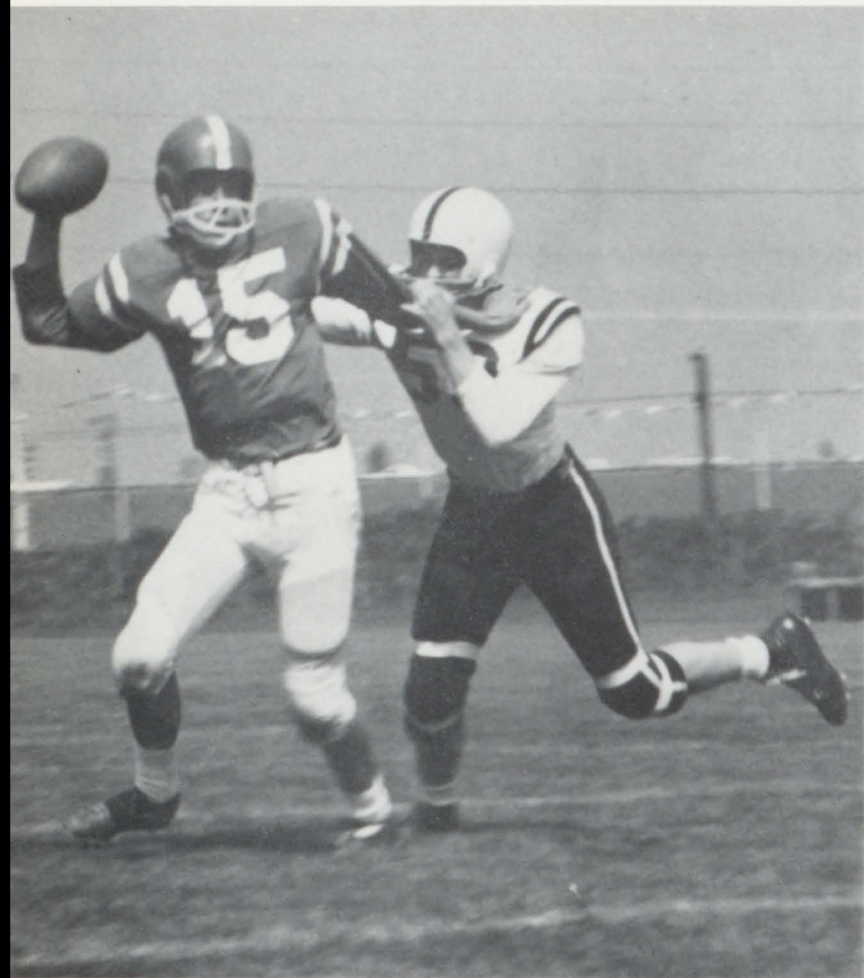

Hard running halfback begins a long gain against Elgin behind blocking led by Jerry Nyckel.

Despite excellent coaching by Donald Maechtle and his staff, the varsity gridmen completed a season of three wins against five losses. The Cats opened the season with a hard-earned 13-0 victory against the traditional opening day rival, Elgin. The Cats then traveled to Prospect where they electrified the crowd with a 13-7 come-from-behind upset victory. The season was highlighted by the homecoming game. Both the offensive and the defensive teams played spirited football and defeated a tough West Leyden squad in the thrilling 12-7 contest. The season ended with the Panthers playing host to Niles West. The Cats and Niles played even football for most of the game, but the clock ran out with Proviso owning the pigskin and Niles owning a 13-7 margin. Larry Scortino, who was a stand-out on the defensive line, was named to the All-Conference Team. Scortino was also voted Most Valuable Senior by his teammates. Gerry Schultz, playing offensive and defensive tackle, was voted as honorable mention in the All-Conference voting. The junior varsity, playing fine football, proved to be the best junior varsity squad that West has seen. Although the jay-vees lost a number of players to the varsity, they posted a fine 3-4-1 season record. Playing tough football, the sophomores won the league championship with a 4-3-1 record. The freshmen teams promised a good football future for West. The freshman "A" squad posted a 5-2 season, and the "B" team posted a 4-2-1 season record.

Varsity Harriers Have Best Season in Dual Meets

Under Coach McCallister the Panther Cross Country team completed their most successful season. Senior Jim Letterer and sophomores Bruce Bowman and Craig Grant aided the squad with their championship runs in the Des Plaines Valley League. Completing an undefeated season, the team shut out the league in the Des Plaines meet by taking the first five places. The harriers also took first place in the La Grange district meet and seventh place in the La Grange district meet and seventh place in the state meet at Champaign. Although losing the first meet, the frosh-soph squad went on to win the remaining ones and also win the Des Plaines Valley League meet and championship of the league.

Fair Shooting, Close Games Mark Panthers' Season

This year's varsity basketball games were constant battles of closely won contests. At the first game of the Christmas Tournament the Panthers bit and clawed toward another close defeat against the Red Devils of Hinsdale. Playing host to Willowbrook, the cagers displayed the best team effort of the season. Led by the Des Plaines Valley League's leading scorer, Chuck Simons, the Proviso Cats played as a close team and routed a tough Willowbrook squad 74-63. During the district tournament, Proviso West traveled to Downers Grove where Proviso dominated play for three quarters against Downers, but lost by a 77-73 score. West's forward John Hobart and guard Chuck Simons were voted by the league coaches to the Des Plaines Valley All-Star Team. Another commendable showing was made by guard Frank Yaccino who was given honorable mention in the all-league voting. The Jay-Vees, Sophomore, and Freshmen teams completed high scoring seasons as they worked toward building next year's varsity team.

Height and Explosive Speed Give Baby Cats Satisfactory Season

West Gymnasts Are Second In District, Eighth in State

The Proviso West gymnastic team started the season with excellent potential. They had lost only four men out of the thirteen-man squad which had placed fifth in the State meet of 1963. Mike Jacki proved to be the spearhead of the team throughout the season. Mike worked five of the six events for the majority of the season and finished the year performing in every event. His ease of movement, difficulty of routines, and finesse in execution were a wonder to audiences throughout the schedule. Mike was unable to perform in the Evanston Invitational because of injury but brought home enough of the gold in the other three tournaments to cover any wall. Mike was Des Plaines Valley all-around and still ring champion. He took second in high bar and parallel bars and a third in side horse. In the District meet he cleaned up a first in all-around, rings, and parallel bars, a second in high bar, and thirds in side horse and tumbling. In December Proviso West was one of the five teams invited to Evanston High School for their annual meet. Bringing back medals were: Jerry Bulmann on trampoline, John Fish on still rings, and Keith Trapp on the side horse. Outstanding during the entire season were: Jerry Bulmann, who hit one of his best trampoline routines to become District trampoline champion; Milan O'bradovich, a consistent high bar performer, who took third in the Des Plaines Valley meet; Dominic Bonovolante, who used an extremely difficult routine throughout the season but had difficulty being consistent; and Mike Litwin who improved more than any other gymnast and has a promising season coming. In all the gymnastic season was highly successful; the gymnasts placing higher than any other team in the school in district and state competition by taking a second and eighth respectively.

Des Plaines Valley Meet—1st Place

District — 2nd Place

State — 9th Place

Continuing in the established fashion, the varsity swimmers completed an excellent season record of 12-1. During the season, Paul Kobierski set a school record of 4:20.3 in the 400-yard freestyle; and Frank Novak equaled his own school record in the 50-yard freestyle. West's divers Les Weber and Dave Mrizek executed with precision their dives; thus contributing to the many victories of Proviso's mermen. Competing in the Des Plaines Valley meet at Proviso West, the mermen swam away from all opposition to capture their second consecutive league title. The 200-yard freestyle relay team composed of Frank Novak, Doug Reagan, Art Stark, and Roy Van Cleave took third place in the state meet. Art Stark, swimming the 200-yard individual medley, clinched fifth place in the State meet. These combined efforts enabled the Cat swimmers to secure ninth place in the state meet. Novak, Reagen, Stark, and Van Cleave earned Little All-America Awards because of their outstanding performance on the 200-yard freestyle relay team. Next year's prospects were good because of the many strong juniors and sophomores who helped splash Proviso toward wins.

Varsity Matmen Take Third at Rich Tournament Nyckel Makes State

Because Proviso's wrestling team was in the process of rebuilding, it completed a dismal 3-12 record in which young and inexperienced wrestlers carried much responsibility during the long and unsuccessful season. In the middle of the season, the wrestlers traveled to Rich East High School for the annual Christmas tournament. The team wrestled well and placed third in the final standings. Among the young wrestlers who made excellent showings were: sophomore Mike Hennessy who, wrestling varsity, made All-Conference at 154, junior Al Lipper also wrestling varsity, made Honorable Mention in the Conference voting. Senior grappler Jerry Nyckel took first place in the district tournament at Proviso East and second place in the sectional tournament at Downers Grove. The Most Valuable Senior Award went to Jerry Nyckel because of his season record and excellent showing at the Rich and district tournaments. Coach Yaeger expects next year's team to be the best wrestling team West has seen, for this year's young and inexperienced wrestlers, who did so well, will be seasoned veterans.

Relying On Experience And Speed Diamondmen Prepare For Long Season

Last year's varsity baseball squad earned a 13-6 record. Because of the superb pitching, led by All-Conference hurler Jim Wittersheim, the majority of the games were closely fought contests with the deciding run coming in the closing innings. The Cat infield was led by Davis and Simons, who provided West with the best double-play combination it has ever seen. Key men at the plate were John Puglise and Bob Cihlar. This year's team will take the field optimistically with a solid pitching staff led by Ken Erdmann and Kurt Bloser. The Cat infield will be paced by Bob Coan at third, Greg Wilmer at short, and Frank Yaccino at second. First base remains an unsettled position with many players battling for this position to round out the Panther infield.

Climaxing last year's track season was the trip to the state meet by West's mile relay team and Ed Victor, discus thrower. In addition to the performances in the state meet, the Panther cindermen captured first place in the Interim League meet. The four mile relay team of Letterer, Bowman, Grant, and Katz earned national recognition. Coach Griep is building this year's team around his many and adequate distance runners and weight men. The Cat track team poses the three fastest milers in the state in Letterer, Bowman, and Grant, who can also double as 880 men. Proviso's Bill Smith is expected to set records in the shot and discus while preparing for the state meet. The four mile relay team of Letterer, Bowman, Grant, and Katz will undoubtedly set a national record. Displaying their power and prowess, Panther cindermen coasted to a 87-31 victory in their first meet. Coach Griep hopes this performance was a foreshadowing of future events for his '64 track season.

Rich Kopanda clears the bar at twelve feet with more than a foot to spare.

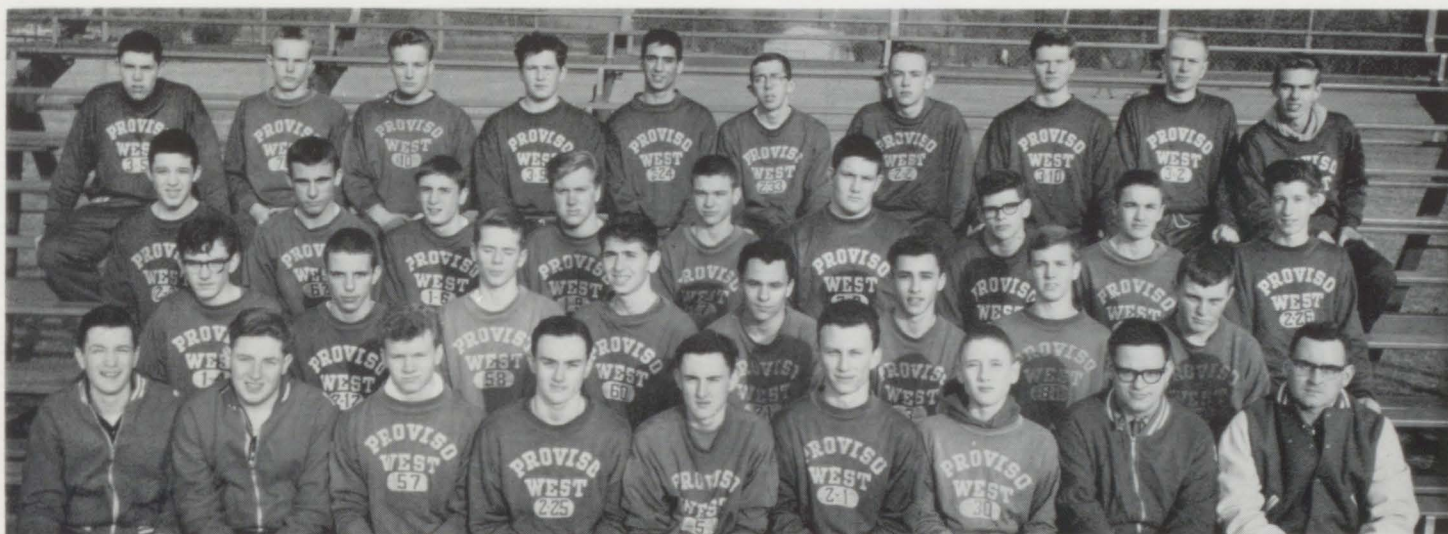

Shotputter Bill Smith concentrates on form before beginning the "glide" and putting the shot.

Paced by Strong Juniors And Experienced Seniors Netmen Seek 1964 Title

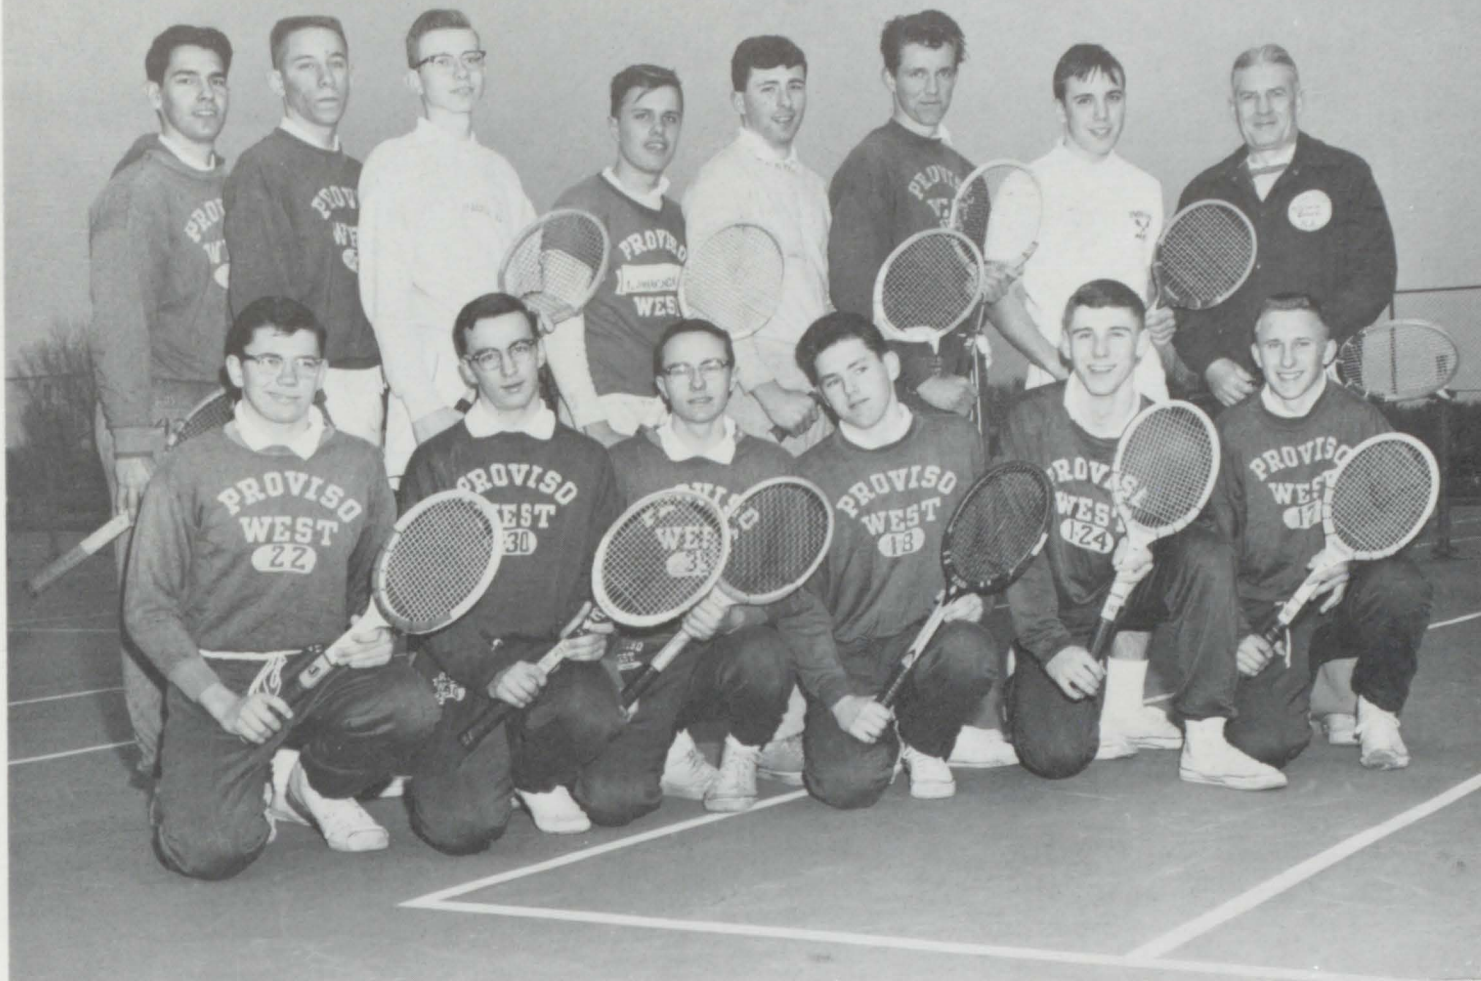

Junior Darrell Pauls slams an overhand shot in meet with Fenton.

Senior Bob Wager exhibits precision form as he backhands ball in Fenton meet.

Last year's varsity tennis team confirmed Mr. Wadsquorth's belief in a young team, for a predominantly junior squad finished the season with a 7-4 season record. Of the twelve-man squad, eight were juniors, one was a sophomore, and only two were seniors. The two most important positions on the team, first and second singles, were filled by juniors. This year's team is built around those eight boys who were juniors last year, but who this year are experienced seniors. The two best players, Bob Wager and John Cionca, are expected to battle each other for the coveted first singles position. The Cat netmen took the court against Fenton on opening day and soundly defeated the Fenton tennis players 5-0. It looks like this year may be the year for tennis at Proviso West.

Linksmen Led by Seniors Damm and Cascino Aim at League and State Crowns

Last year's golf season was climaxed by the winning of the league titles by the sophomore and varsity teams. The team was a young one revolving on a nucleus of sophomores and juniors. Outstanding junior golfers Don Damm and George Cascino led the team with their consistent performances. The most exciting incident of the season was a hole-in-one by sophomore Paul Sindelar. This year, the varsity linkmen will be under a new coach, Mr. Joe Wrobke. Mr. Wrobke's team, as the team last year, will revolve around Don Damm and George Cascino. Golfers expected to submit excellent seasons are Bob Gardner, Tim Kyzivat, and Paul Sindelar. The Panthers displayed their expected power by winning their first meet of the season by a score of 171-196.

With the ending of high school comes, perhaps, the greatest break between adolescence and adulthood. Although high school provides ample work for the students, the business and industrial worlds will create a multitude of challenging but rewarding opportunities for these same graduates. Many everlasting and truly inspirational memories emanate from rich and enhancing, but yet educational classroom experiences. Typical of these experiences were the enlightening literary discourses in College Preparatory English class and the political debates in United States History class. Not all heightening achievements were attained in the classrooms. The Class of 1964 began their senior year with a resounding triumph when the football team won the homecoming game against West Leyden. The Class of 1964, with a bevy of victories behind them chose a motto to typify their past attitudes: The world steps aside to let any man pass who knows where he is going.

Memorizing dates, learning about presidents, and worrying about wars became part of the Juniors' year as they tackled U. S. History. Thoreau, Emerson, and Melville became familiar names as they delved through the various phases of American Literature. For the first time Juniors faced a sea of faces and a war with nervousness as the prospect of giving a speech in Public Speaking loomed heavy on their minds. At Homecoming, Juniors won third prize for their float modeled after a stagecoach. Enjoying a leisurely atmosphere of the Old West they danced that nite "Under the Western Skies." At "Windsong," the traditional Junior dance, snowmen and twinkling Italian lights provided a winter theme. Coke and potato chips were refreshments at a February coke hour. "Stale Hearts" was held a few days after Valentine's Day. March brought the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, a three-hour scholarship test. At the elections they chose class and student council officers. Juniors voted for the last time, realizing that the honor of being seniors was a short time away. Vocational conferences in the spring enabled Juniors to talk with outstanding business leaders about college and career opportunities. In C114 they obtained college catalogues and interviews to speak with college representatives. In spring they chose their class rings of gold, silver, pearl, red, or blue. As they paid the deposit fee, they wondered how they would hold on to the receipt until next year. Seeing the class above them graduate at the end of the year, Juniors held their heads high. They were "almost Seniors."

The sophomores, often known as the "forgotten class," began the year with a certain security after the threat of water fountain dunkings and elevator passes had disappeared. Ready for anything, the largest class at Proviso West, plunged into the familiar intricacies of grammar and the less accustomed difficulties of obtuse angles, and biology dissections. The rigors of a varied social life appeared with the advent of dances, coke hours and parties. The highlight of these events, of course, was the Sophomore Class Dance held in May. The opportunity to take Driver Training was eagerly sought to make less doubtful the acquisition of the all-important driver's license which marks the sophomore's formal induction into a new maturity.

Standing: Treasurer Jane Taft, Vice-President Bill Guinta. Sitting: President Carol Cadek, Secretary Jean Earnest.

AFTER hours of toil and trouble, sophomores display their first homecoming float, serving as experience for the next two years of tough but rewarding building.

An air of confusion mixed with discovery accompanied the freshman class of 1967 into Proviso. Alleviating this confusion after the first several months were Proviso Pete, the Redbook, and identification cards which enabled freshmen to unlock the door to successful high school life. Among the multitude of new experiences were fun nights, the class party, homecoming, and the several all-school dances. This year many freshmen participated in the honors program which enables them to carry extra subjects, honors classes, or skip certain basic courses. New areas of study offered to the freshmen are algebra, foreign languages, and technical and applied sciences. Earning honor roll status and seals comprised another new academic practice. Concluding their first year, the freshmen chose their basic courses of study for their remaining three years. On the lighter side of their lives, frosh can look forward to a life free from water fountain dunkings and elevator passes. These humorous pranks were pulled on freshmen and are an expected part of every student's beginning year at Proviso West High School.

Freshman faces watch intently while listening to the qualifications of the class candidates at their first election assembly at West.

Facing the responsibility of our new staff positions was just one of the many adjustments that had to be made before work on the yearbook could begin. A new face appeared in our office this year in the form of Mrs. Jessie Veach our new Mural advisor. The staff welcomed Mrs. Veach and all of her enthusiasm. At the same time we began looking ahead to the long hours and many after school sessions that were to take place throughout the year. Having our own office for the second year and our own telephone for the first year were two of our most valuable assets. More valuable than these was our printer Mr. Norman Semmelroth of Record Printing and Advertising Company who struggled along with us and tried to understand the problems made by our earlier "deadlines." Also highly valued by the Mural staff was Mr. Larry Wells of Associates Engraving Company who helped us to unify our ideas into our yearbook theme "The Faces of Proviso West." We also owe a special thank you to Root Studios and their fine photographer Lennie Novak for their faithful help in capturing the "faces" of West. Our business manager Mrs. Wilma Dombrowski certainly deserves our thanks for the devoted attention she gave to the financial portion of our book. Facing and accepting our responsibilities as staff members is over now, but it was definitely a year filled with unforgettable experiences.
